

Critical Care Drugs

While any prescription drug may be critical to a patient's care, Critical Care Drugs are specific, high-cost, brand-name drugs with no generic equivalent in their therapeutic class that are used to treat conditions like Alzheimer's, certain cancers, Parkinson's, and organ transplants after more traditional treatments have been tried. The list of Critical Care Drugs is updated every calendar year but does not change during the year. The HOP Pre-65 Medical Plan with prescription drug coverage pays 50% of the cost for Critical Care Drugs after the $350 deductible is met (up to a maximum participant copayment of $100 per 30-day prescription).
